Local Business Men Discuss County Fair

The Jeffersontown Business Men's Club took up the matter of sponsoring a County-wide agricultural fair at the regular dinner meeting held here at the Murphy Restaurant Monday evening. The proposition was considered from its various angles and discussion proceeded to the point where a committee was appointed to locate a suitable site for the fair.

It developed in the course of discussion that at least three different groups had been considering both the need and the possibilities of establishing such an organization.

New Plant Harmonizes Prevents Spud Spillage

New York, Jan. 13.—A way has been found to save future potato crops from sprouting and "sweetening" in storage, conditions which have plagued nearly one per cent of the large potato crop, it was disclosed here today.

"Agricultural college experiments conducted in cooperation with growers, indicate that plants tubers as they go into storage, will forestall the damage done by changing temperatures in the house," said Harvey A. Bush, head of produce-buying operations for A. P. & F. Food Stores, whose potato purchases in the state last year amounted to 15,400,000 bushels.

The new treatment, entirely harmless to the food itself, is available to farmers in all major potato-growing areas.

It promises not only to prevent losses of market value which have always been particularly heavy in bumper years, but also to effect a considerable saving for consumers, he said.

Various Farm Groups Unite In Fair Efforts

A number of livestock breeders and agricultural leaders met at the Jefferson County Fair Wednesday night to discuss plans being made for a county agricultural fair for Jefferson County. The speakers expressed various agricultural and manufacturing interests of the county.

Dr. S. G. Bandeen, president of the Jefferson County Purchasing Association, outlined what he considered greatest possibilities for a County fair to be located in this central area of the state.

It developed in the course of discussion that at least three different groups had been considering both the need and the possibilities of establishing such an organization.

Dr. S. G. Bandeen, president of the Jefferson County Purchasing Association, outlined what he considered greatest possibilities for a County fair to be located in this central area of the state.

The group headed by Dr. Bandeen put on a livestock show at the Jeffersonton High School on Saturday, Jan. 10. The exhibit, though presented on a small scale, proved successful in excess of anticipations of the sponsors.

County agricultural agents, S. W. Anderson and H. C. Brown, discussed the project from their viewpoint. Both stated that a county fair, designed to include exhibits of the County Clubs, P.T.A., and 4-H'ers' bodies, as well as producers of farm products, generally, and livestock breeders, should prove a boon to agricultural interests in this area.

The agricultural leaders said that their counsel would be available to the promoters of the project and producers, for, in setting up, the exhibits.

D. Bandeen stated that articles of incorporation had been prepared for a non-profit corporation to be known as the Jefferson County Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington January 28-31.

Prominent among the speakers will be C. W. Bailey of Clarksville, Tenn., professor of Agriculture, and Alexander B. W. L. Myers of New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University; Mrs. Vee Powell, Chicago fashion authority; Mrs. Myrtle Laddie, Dallas radio woman; President H. L. Donovan and David Thompson, members of the Board of Education.

Other speakers include Dr. Edward Torstrik, to investigate the possibilities of locating the fair on January 29.

Edith E. King, who is to take care of the preliminaries as quickly as possible so that steps may be taken in time to plan and promote this year's exhibition.

This picture should be a thrill for the young children and teenagers attending the P.T.A. socials. Come along! It's a great night!

Come out Saturday evening and enjoy two hours of thrills and fun.

FERN CREEK

The 4-H Club of Fern Creek Grade School held its regular monthly meeting on January 13. We opened our meeting by singing "My Old Kentucky Home" and answered the question, "Who in our family like ice cream." Our vice-president, Charlotte Hawkins, announced that our program was about dairying. The following program was given by Bill Briley, Joyce Miller, Anna Belle Ellingsworth, Jimmy Morgan, Norma Jean Miller, Coleman Smith, Marjorie Green, and Mrs. Briley.

Since Fern Creek ranked second highest in the county in 4-H club work last week, we received a trophy which we may keep at school until next year. Mrs. Briley presented the trophy to us at this meeting. Miss Word praised us and our leaders for the good work we did.

We are all interested in our projects and will begin work on them again next week.—Elizabeth Welsh, Reporter.

AMERICA'S SHAMEFUL FIRE RECORD

This country's fire record for 1946 is a bad one. In fact, it was a terrible record, considering all of the past—both in the loss of life and property. Those who have the facts and figures available see, in the final tabulation, a total waste of approximately $600,000,000. Furthermore, the number of lives lost will approach 11,000.

1946 is past, and to make excuses is but to put idle words together to no profitable end. Suffice now to note the causes and seek to eliminate them during 1947. Those who have the records discover that there is little excuse for carelessness or ignorance. Of course, there would be some falsification of claims, but if outright need were made the basis of all government assistance, it would not be much to demand. It would not be much to demand such an unfair burden upon taxpayers—and who is not one? No one needs relief who is capable of supporting himself. Government should consider aiding only those in the former category. Of course, there would be some employment under similar conditions. No one needs housing accommodations unless he has no room or modern conveniences or to split up a house which has endured living under one roof for years.

Faulty electric wiring, both in homes and apartments, also plays a large part in causing fires.

Recent experiences indicate, too, that there is obvious need for education of the individual in what to do in a building attacked by fire. Failing to know meant death to many in recent hotel disasters. People jumped to death unnecessarily, while others threw open doors and windows, creating drafts that fanned the flames to greater fury.

This country should be ashamed of its 1946 fire record. All of us should make a solemn resolve to help improve it in 1947.

For weeks he came up to my second-floor apartment to treat the wretchedness of all with the wretchedness of all, he pulled her through. On figures like those regarding insurance, etc., there should be two lists, one of the "needers" and one of "wanters." The Government should consider aiding only in the former category. MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

It would be pinning too many orchids on the Committee for Kentucky if we could not credit them with having started the entire movement for better pay for school teachers, but the organization's revelations a year ago were felt in every corner of the country. But we can take unto ourselves a considerable share of the glory. A magazine article which a few Kentuckians helped to write depicted a picture based arouse millions of people to a desire for elementary education in the states and moved them to do something about it.

California's lift is from $900,000 a year for school personnel to $1,050,000. The states cannot cope with the wealthy Golden State. They can, however, increase their school revenue according to population. Kentucky's average increase per county or school district is, proportionately, very little, but winter is the third from bottom in money spent per classroom. Mississippi is $400 per classroom. New York is $1,000 per classroom.

These were averages. The extreme low in the United States was $100 per classroom.

In the last three months the press of the nation has given more attention to our declining schools than it ever gave before in any one period. And that is good.

But getting more money for teachers will not solve the country's educational problems completely. The people must stand around the necessity of cooperating with school boards, superintendents, principals and teachers.

Those in Kentucky the public for the most part was absorbed in less important things while the schools drifted steadily toward the how-nows.

California enacted early last year Oregon's new law equalizes educational opportunities and stabilizes year-to-year school financing.

This idea seems to be better than doing nothing, but the cost of living fluctuates and state governments should act accordingly.

Utah has established new school standards to be maintained by all state funds and allotted all state income taxes to the public school fund.

A few state legislatures have voted down bills to increase school taxes. Most of them can be counted on to reverse themselves in the near future, because it is a master of either raising more funds or seeing their schools sink lower and lower.

California's lift is from $900,000 a year for school personnel to $1,050,000. The states cannot cope with the wealthy Golden State. They can, however, increase their school revenue according to population. Kentucky's average increase per county or school district is, proportionately, very little, but winter is the third from bottom in money spent per classroom. Mississippi is $400 per classroom. New York is $1,000 per classroom.

These were averages. The extreme low in the United States was $100 per classroom.

JESUS INTERVIEWED BY NICODIMUS

LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-11, 18-17.

MEMORY SELECTION—Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

How does one become a Christian? This is the question of Nicodemus, and it is the question in the hearts and minds of thousands in every generation. The answer is clear.

The only entrance into the Christian life is by the door of the new birth. Regeneration is the act of God. He who is born again is dedicated to the saving sinner and becomes the child of God. He who has not entered by this way has not entered at all. He is still in the treasuries of sin, without God and without hope (Eph. 2:1, 12).

The Pharisees who looked for the coming of the Messiah were continually disappointed at this new spiritual leader. It was probably as much on behalf of his own pride as on behalf of Nicodemus that Jesus asked the question: "What is regeneration?"

The New Birth—a Necessity (vv. 1-11)

Our Lord's visitor was a man of distinction and standing in the community, but Jesus did not let his visitor's courteous acknowledgment of his own position as a great teacher distract him. Nicodemus called Jesus the greatest ruler of the Jews, the most learned and distinguished ruler of the Jews, who must be born again, if he is to see the kingdom of God.

No man is a stranger of persons.

The doctor of medicine must be born again just as much as the illiterate fisherman. D. L. Moody once said that he was not born again to teach men, but to convert them. Nicodemus knew that Jesus presented the necessity of the new birth, or man would have said that out the down-and-outer needed to be saved.

Two reasons are given by our Lord for the "must" of regeneration:

(1) The Kingdom of God is spiritual kingdom and cannot be entered by way of human nature;

(2) "that which is born of the flesh is flesh" and is radically and essentially bad. We learn why that is true when we read in Galatians 5:19-21.

Scripture on this point is almost entirely missing in our schools and colleges, but the teachings in our schools and colleges, but God's Word is right; let us follow it.

The New Birth—a Mystery (vv. 12-17)

God has graciously revealed to us "all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of Christ Jesus." But it is not always easy to understand some things hidden in his own blessed counsels. We know the experience of the new birth and the wonderful results of regeneration. But what actually takes place is a divine mystery, not fathomable by human reason, who can see its results in spiritual truth but pass through the little norm of their intelligence will never understand or receive its blessing (1 Cor. 2:12).

The striking illustration of the life-giving and energizing wind used by our Lord is the illuminating sun. The sun, indeed, the results of its movement are evident. Even so the spiritual rebirth of man is an enigma to the world man, who can see its results in godly living.

We know that regeneration is not only a possibility, but an actuality, but in truth, the greatest of all facts.

Farm Bureau News From County, State and Nation

Keeping The Farm In The Family

Thousands of elderly farmers carried on while their sons were fighting the war. Many of them are now seeking a way to retain and protect their farms to younger hands.

These retiring farmers want to be fair, both to the son who takes over and to his brothers and sisters. Also, many returning farmers seem to insure economic security for himself and his wife during their declining years.

This problem is discussed by John F. Tamm, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in the winter issue of Land Policy Review. It is acute now primarily because the unusually large number of transfers of this type—she is one of the oldest holding on until beyond normal retirement age.

Another factor is that so many farmers now really own their farm outright, and it is not so easy to be transferred and averaged high, so it is not so much a question of the son taking over the mortgage as well as the farm. The problem just now is further complicated by a boom in farm valuation.

Timmons endorses the old saying that the surest way to acquire a farm is to inherit or marry one. But it is the other types of transfers that are troubling. Only too often in the United States a son has been born into an older again in each generation. Under our customs the farm, as a going concern, is likely to be sold or broken up to satisfy the needs of the heirs. If it is held as a unit and farmed by a son, there is likely to be a process of soil mining to pay off brothers and sisters who have helped him to establish his homestead to conservation farming that does not exist in nations where one of the children inherits the farm. Where this is done, the custom of the farm to old age, because they stay on the farm, retaining ownership until death, but the child does the work, is a good example of something from his skill, and labor and improvement made on the farm.

In a concluding paragraph Timmons says that "satisfactory farm transfers within families are not easily achieved. But to day swift-moving events demand that farm property arrangement in American agriculture—he kept sound and continuous... This action is demanded by the future welfare of the family, the farm, and the rural community."

Funds Allocated To Maintain Soil Fertility

To aid farmers in maintaining the fertility of Kentucky soil, $7,451,000 of the proposed 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program funds have been allocated to the State, said Mr. M. D. Rose, State Director of the Production and Marketing Administration, announced today.

As in past years, these funds will be used to repay a part of farmers' costs of soil conservation practices on their farms during the year, or to furnish materials, such as lime and phosphate, used in carrying out these practices.

Soil conserving and soil building practices for which the funds may be used were selected from among those recommended by elected farmer committees in the counties.

Practices approved in this State-wide conservation program for 1947 include spreading ground limestone on farm land; applying phosphate to eligible grasses and legumes; applying lime to grass and legumes to winter cover crops; turning under green manure crops; establishing or improving contour pastures; constructing stockwater tanks and ponds; planting row crops on the contour; terracing and ditching land to reduce erosion and conserve moisture; dredging wet bed; planting forage, turnips, and harvesting needed legume seeds.

A farmer in Kentucky will be able to qualify for assistance in carrying out any of these approved practices needed in his farm.

SEATONVILLE

The Homemakers Club met with Mrs. Lucille Bruce on January 7.

The major interest of the day was designing new lamp shades on old frames. Mrs. Fred Ruecken, who had received the instructions from Miss Anna Evans, gave a most interesting demonstration. Several samples of shades were shown. They consisted of cloth, parchment and shades made with wall paper.

The club decided to meet with Mrs. Ruecken on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 10, for a party.

Mrs. Bryant, an instructor from the Red Cross, gave the "First Aid" lesson. Several types of transfers were studied. Mrs. Paul Tyler gave the landscaping lesson.

The next regular meeting will be February 11 with Mrs. Fred Ruecken as speaker.

The club appointed Mrs. Jesse Sharp as co-chairman of the project for this meeting.

Mrs. Leo Heckman gave a lesson on the care of indoor and outdoor plants. Mrs. James Lane Stanford gave an interesting talk on "Kentucky." ■

OPENING is approaching, the club appointed Mrs. Ruby Holloway to give a lesson on getting a home ready for spring.

Mrs. Ruthie Thompson and Mrs. Tharp served a nice lunch.—Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Ben J. Williams, Jr.

HIGHVIEW

The Highview Homemakers Club met with Mrs. A. J. Jones on Highland Avenue Thursday, January 9. Not so many of the members practiced approved in this State-wide conservation program for 1947 include spreading ground limestone on farm land; applying phosphate to eligible grasses and legumes; applying lime to grass and legumes to winter cover crops; turning under green manure crops; establishing or improving contour pastures; constructing stockwater tanks and ponds; planting row crops on the contour; terracing and ditching land to reduce erosion and conserve moisture; dredging wet bed; planting forage, turnips, and harvesting needed legume seeds.
